

Unlocking secure messages from DHS and OHA

The Oregon Health Authority and Department of Human Services are strongly committed to protecting the privacy and security of the people we serve. It is required by law, it's part of our core values, and it's the right thing to do. That is why we require that all email be sent securely if it contains protected client information.

Due to recent changes in the federal Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), recipients of secure email now have to log in to our system in order to read secure email messages.

Beginning January 12, 2015, when you receive a secure email from DHS or OHA, you will have to log in with a user name and password in order to read that email. You will also use this system to send a secure email to these agencies.

This is a change in the way DHS and OHA have communicated with you. It is happening because of revised federal rules related to the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA).

Setting up your account

The first time you exchange secure email with DHS or OHA on or after January 12, you will be prompted to set up an account with a password. You will be directed to a site called "Proofpoint Encryption" to do this. You will see the following message:

First time here? (You'll be asked to register.)

Already registered? (You'll be asked to log in.)

You will be prompted to create an account. All you need to enter is your email address, name and password. The password must be eight to 20 characters, and contain numbers and upper- and lowercase letters. Please complete all the fields and select "Continue."
