BCCTP APPLICATION PROCESS

BCCTP provides eligible women with medical assistance through the Oregon Health Plan (OHP) to cover treatment for qualifying cancer diagnoses. The application process for the program is outlined below.

1. A provider will determine if a woman is presumptively eligible for the program using the checklist on page 4.
 2. A provider will access the application at www.healthoregon.org/screenwise ; under the Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Program (BCCTP) tab.
 3. The patient and provider will complete the form together.
 4. The form is faxed to OHP for processing at (503) 373-7493.
 5. Once presumptive eligibility has been established, treatment can begin immediately.
6. The patient may receive more forms to complete from OHP for full determination of OHP benefits.
 7. Once full determination has been completed, the patient will initially be enrolled in OHP for one year.
8. Near the end of the first year the patient will receive a redetermination letter in the mail. The provider will certify if the patient is still in need of treatment.
 9. Step 8 repeats until the patient is no longer in need of treatment or is otherwise found not to be eligible for the program.

PROVIDER FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Who is qualified to enroll a patient in BCCTP?

A licensed health care provider can presumptively enroll a patient into BCCTP to receive OHP coverage if she is determined eligible by the provider.

What is presumptive eligibility?

Presumptive eligibility is a Medicaid option that allows enrollment into Medicaid for a limited period of time before full applications are filed and processed. Presumptive eligibility provides immediate, temporary coverage for women who appear to meet basic eligibility criteria. If presumptive eligibility is granted to a woman who then provides documentation that she does not meet the criteria (including citizenship or lawful permanent residency), her eligibility period will end. If a woman fails to provide proof of citizenship or lawful permanent residency upon request, her presumptive eligibility period will end.

Can men enroll in BCCTP?

No, BCCTP is only available for women due to federal law.

Why are women 65 and older not eligible for BCCTP?

This is a Medicaid restriction. Patients 65 and older with no Medicare coverage may be able to access other financial assistance programs in their communities.

Is LCIS a qualifying diagnosis?

LCIS is not a qualifying diagnosis. The BCCP Medical Advisory Committee revisited the list of qualifying diagnoses in the fall of 2011.

If a woman has health insurance coverage is she presumptively eligible?

If a woman does not have creditable health insurance for treatment of her diagnosis she may be covered. This determination is made by OHP.

I'm not a ScreenWise provider but I've seen a patient that I think has symptoms of cervical cancer. Is she eligible for BCCTP?

Once a qualifying diagnosis is confirmed with a biopsy result and the client's eligibility has been verified, she can enroll in BCCTP for treatment.

Who do I contact to see which procedures and tests will be covered by OHP while a woman is enrolled in BCCTP?

Please direct all questions regarding coverage of procedures or tests to the Division of Medical Assistance Programs (DMAP). DMAP can be reached at: 1-800-336-6016.

If a woman is taking hormone therapy (ex: tamoxifen), does she qualify for continued OHP coverage at redetermination?

A provider states whether a patient still requires treatment on the redetermination letter. It is left to the provider's discretion what is considered treatment for that individual.

PATIENT FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is BCCTP?

The Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Program (BCCTP) is a Medicaid program that gives access to the Oregon Health Plan (OHP) to uninsured or underinsured women with breast or cervical cancer for treatment. This program is available to women in ScreenWise who have been diagnosed with breast or cervical cancer. It is also available to women with breast or cervical cancer who are not in ScreenWise but meet the program eligibility guidelines, as well as OHP guidelines.

I have a breast or cervical cancer diagnosis but I'm not in ScreenWise. Can I still have my cancer treatment paid for?

Even if you weren't in the program you might still be able to get health benefits. Your treatment may be paid for if you:

- live in Oregon,
- have a household income under 250% of the Federal Poverty Level,
- are under 65 years old,
- are without creditable health insurance and
- have been diagnosed with breast or cervical cancer or other certain conditions.

Who decides if I can join the program?

Your health care provider will decide if you are presumptively eligible for referral to BCCTP. This depends on the information above. If they decide that you are eligible, you will fill out a form together. You can begin treatment right away. The form will be sent to the OHP office and you will hear back within 45 days. When you receive paperwork from OHP, you must return it.

Who can help me apply to the program?

Any health care provider that can screen for and diagnose cancer can fill out the form with you.

When will I start to get benefits?

You can apply as soon as the day that you are diagnosed. OHP will start to pay for your treatment the day of your diagnosis. There is also a chance that OHP will also pay for tests and procedures that led to your diagnosis.

How long will I have OHP coverage?

When you first join OHP you will be covered for one year. Near the end of that year, you will get a letter in the mail asking if you still need treatment. This letter needs to be signed by your health care provider and mailed back to OHP. You will continue to be covered for as long as you need treatment, until you turn 65 or begin to receive other health insurance coverage.

If I have more questions, who should I ask?

You can call OHP at 1-800-699-9075.
